City Directors Okay Sale of Sewer Bonds

Hope's City Board of Directors yesterday accepted a bid from the E. L. Villereal, Dabbs and Sullivan for the purchase of $210,000 in bonds bearing an interest rate of 4.25 per cent.

Only one other bonding firm, Itaney & Stephens, submitted a bid on the bonds. The bonds, to be paid out of current revenue, will mature in 15 years and be callable in five.

On June 6 the group voted to issue bonds to replace about 90 per cent of the city's sewer mains. This action was taken following a report on the proposed project from Engineer John Hawkins.

The plans call for the replacement of 36,196 feet or 6.85 miles of new lines some which will be 15 inch pipe.

The project may take 6 months to complete and will be very inconvenient. However, very little of the downtown area will be affected. Work should start in the very near future.

NEA Set to Take Race Issue Stand

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The National Education Association, whose ranks have been split in the past by bitter battles over school desegregation, appears ready this year to take a stand on the issue with a minimum of hickering.

The powerful resolutions committee of the NEA convention has offered the strongest policy statement on desegregation in NEA history.

It falls far short of what any Negro and many northern and Western whites would like. However, it seems to have at least token support from them, and from Southern whites as well.

The policy statement was offered at an open meeting of the resolutions committee on Monday.

In contrast to past years, its reception was mild.

This year's resolution appears strong only by comparison with action at other NEA conventions.

For instance, the NEA, with a membership of 765,000 educators, never has said flatly that it approves of the 1954 Supreme Court decision on segregated schools.

This year's proposed resolution at least acknowledges that decision and the changes it has brought to the public schools. It is the first one ever to carry even a hint of action by the NEA.

It directs the officers and directors of the association "to be alert to the possibilities for planning and initiating actions" which will among other things, "assure the maintenance of free public schools; promote good will, fairness and respect for law; offer possibilities of reducing hostility."

School Board Sees on Big Problems

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock School Board expects no serious problems when desegregation goes into effect this fall at the city's junior high schools, Everett Tucker Jr., board president, said Monday.

Tucker and Russell Matson Jr., board vice president, met with the bi-racial Greater Little Rock Ministerial Association, to discuss the city's preparation for further integration.

"We anticipate in particular problems of any sort," Tucker said.

Tucker said the board's action toward integrating on the junior high level was through its own initiative. He said it would have been done even without the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeal urging more affirmative desegregation action.

The Rev. Rufus King Young was formally installed as the association's first Negro president.

Error Results in $10,000 Judgment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A $13 clerical error by the Army three years ago resulted in a $10,000 judgment for Mrs. Huella Robinson of Benton Monday.

Federal Judge J. Smith Henley ordered the payment from a National Service Life Insurance policy held by Mrs. Robinson's son, Elmer Robinson Jr., who died Sept. 9, 1958.

The Veterans Administration contended that Robinson failed to meet premium payments after leaving the service and that on May 15, 1958, the policy had lapsed.

But Mrs. Robinson, the beneficiary, claimed otherwise and filed for benefits.

An Army payroll investigation showed:

The policy was issued to Robinson when he entered the Army in 1948 with monthly premiums being deducted until 1951 when Congress directed servicemen to receive free life insurance.

Records showed two monthly premiums were deducted from Robinson's pay for May and June of 1951, after the Congressional order went into effect.

VA officials used the two premium payments for May and June of 1953 and Robinson's accumulated dividends for the previous year provided enough to maintain the policy beyond the date of his death.

Asst. U.S. Atty. James W. Gailman said the latter dividends would be refunded to Mrs. Robinson along with the insurance payment.

But she wouldn't receive the entire $10,000.

Henley directed that her attorney receive a $1,000 payment.

Four County Elections on Ballot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four county elections are scheduled in Arkansas today besides the vote on the Gov. Orval E. Faubus' bond issue. In one of them, Faubus' son tries to make his debut in politics.

Farrell E. Faubus, 22, a University of Arkansas law student, is the Democratic candidate for state representative in a special election in Madison County. He is opposed by write-in candidate Essie Barker, a retired school teacher and a Republican.

In Conway County, Loid Sadler and Houston Mallett of Morrilton are running for the state representative's post left vacant by the death of Clay Brazil.

In Miller County, a $300,000 industrial bond issue election is set. The bonds would provide a building for the American Device Manufacturing Co., a firm which makes postal lock boxes.

The firm would employ 50 to 100 at the outset, and expand. It would repay the bonds through a 25-year lease arrangement.

In Little River County, an election is set on a proposed 1.5 mill property tax to finance construction of a nursing home, a welfare office and a health unit office.

Native Mink Are Raised as Pets

MARSHA RAY, 7, AND BARBARA RAY, 5, ARE PICTURED above holding two native mink which are household pets.

SIX WEEKS AGO THEIR FATHER, JACK RAY, FOUND three mink while looking for duck nests at Ram Wood Products lake in the Proving Ground. He thought they were rats at first as they were only about three inches in length. After deciding they were mink he bottle raised them and the result is amazing.

THEY ARE EXTREMELY TAME, PLAYFUL, AND WON'T run off when turned loose in the yard. Like most animals they love children and love to be petted. The children wrap them around their necks and they cling there docilely. Not many persons can boast a real live fur piece.

MR. RAY, FORMER NATIONAL CHAMPION GOOSE caller who performs at many sports shows over the U. S., plans to use them in his act in some way if he can train them properly. And providing Marsha and Barbara are willing to give up their fur neck pieces.

Living Cost Dips a Big, U. S. Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—The cost of living dipped one-tenth of one per cent in May because of the meat and grocery bills, the Labor Department reported today.

At 127.4 per cent of the 1947-49 consumer price average, the index has not fluctuated up or down by more than a small fraction in the last eight months.

Judge Enters Plea of Innocent

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP) — Municipal Judge John C. Watkins entered a plea of innocent Monday to a charge of jury tampering in the recent trial on investment broker Arnold E. Edens.

Watkins waived a preliminary hearing before Circuit Judge Edward S. Maddox who set trial for July 31.

Edens was convicted May 26 on a false pretense charge and sentenced to 11 years in prison. He also drew a six-year term on a charge of overdraw in connection with an $11,000 check.

Watkins remained free on $4,000 bond. Jury tampering is a felony.

State Firms Must Withhold Tax

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — At least 2,000 eastern Oklahoma firms work in Arkansas and Arkansas firms which do business in Oklahoma state income tax under a new state law.

An Oklahoma tax commission official meets with western Arkansas businessmen today to explain his state's new income tax withholding system.

Employers must withhold from employee's pay 5 per cent of the amount which they withhold for federal income tax. The law goes into effect July 1.

Paul Latture, president of the Fort Smith Chamber of Commerce, said many employers are upset about having to collect the Oklahoma tax.

MOP to Expand N. L. R. Yards

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Missouri Pacific Railroad will put $2 million into an expansion program in its North Little Rock yards, bringing the total operation to a value of $9 million.

The railroad's executive committee made that decision Saturday after examining local facilities. The expansion will involve hiring of an undetermined number of new employees and adding 16 trucks to the present 40 main ones in the classification or hump yard.

The electronic classification yard and diesel shop will be the scene of most of the expansion.

Troop 62 Returns From Camp

Boy Scout Troop 62 returned Saturday the 24th after a week of camping at Camp Pioneer near Mena, Ark.

Scouts that attended the camp were Keith Byrd, Gordon Bolar, Bill Coffee, Johnny Gardner, Bobby Mitchell, Johnny Lowe, Monroe Pardue, Robert Polk, Paul Powell, Jim Robertson, Johnny Samuels, Bobby Samuels and Keenan Williams. Adult leaders were Jerry O'Neal, Scoutmaster, and Jon Barharotto, troop committeeman.

Bobby Mitchell received a special award, Scout Mile Swim. A scout must swim a mile non stop to be eligible for this award.

Troop 62 had two members, Bill Coffee and Gordon Bolar, receive the highest honor in scouting by being elected into the Order of the Arrow, the Brotherhood of Honor Campers.

Troop 62 also obtained an average of 98 points for the week in inspection, which was the highest in camp.

Decision on Tractor Deal Seen Today

By LOUIS DE LA HABIA

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Directly contradictory reports persisted today about the future of the committee of prisoners sent here by Fidel Castro. Havana radio said they were preparing to return to Cuba but the prisoners said they were not.

Havana radio, quoting unofficial sources, said, "The Yankee government has caused the negotiations to fail. The committee of prisoners is preparing to return to Cuba today to report on the failure of the negotiations."

The radio also quoted Prime Minister Fidel Castro as blaming the defunct Tractors for Freedom Committee for the failure and saying "the committee wants to cheat and blackmail us."

A spokesman for the prisoners, who declined to be quoted by name, said flatly, "We are not preparing to leave. This is the first we have heard of it and we are continuing to do our best to secure the freedom of our companions. We have no news whatsoever, other than what you have told us."

American officials also said they knew nothing of any plans for the prisoners to go back.

John Hooker Jr., executive secretary of the tractors committee, said he had planned to return to Key West from Miami this afternoon, bringing with him new information for the prisoners. He would not say what the information was.

Monday, Hooker said he expected to have "a decision" by this afternoon on the future of negotiations.

The Cuban broadcast also quoted Castro as saying, "We wanted tractors because they are tools for work. We did not ask for arms or consumer goods. Forty-five million dollars was spent in saving death. Money could well have been spent on tools for work."

His comments about $45 million was a reference to published reports on the cost of the abortive invasion of April 17.

When the prisoners were sent to Key West Saturday, Castro said their mission was to tell the American people his position in the stalemate negotiations to change the 1,197 prisoners for 500 tractors.

The Cuban radio quoted Castro as saying Cuba was willing to accept agricultural equipment in exchange for the prisoners "providing it is easier by ourselves."

Castro Friday rejected a take-it-or-leave-it offer of 500 farm tractors from the American committee. He maintained his demands for 500 heavy bulldozers or equivalent value.

Hooker has been the only contact between Castro's prisoners, emissaries and members of the disbanded tractors committee.

Since his first meeting with the prisoners Saturday, Hooker has insisted he is not negotiating with them, but only serving as a link between the two groups.

Members of the committee were Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton Eisenhower and Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers.

Hooker's continued involvement was interpreted by informed sources as an indication that a new approach may be made to break the negotiation stalemate.

Hooker had planned to meet with the prisoners Monday but his trip was canceled without explanation.

The prisoners held an impromptu news conference Monday to deny published reports they had planned to blame the United States publicly for the failure of the April 17 invasion in which they were captured.

Fact-finders Study the Dock Strike

By ANDREW MEISELS

NEW YORK (AP)—A fact-finding board meets today to speed a report on the maritime strike to President Kennedy. The report could be the crucial step in halting the 12-day-old strike under the Taft-Hartley law.

The three-man board gathered in response to a reluctant SOS from Kennedy, who voted against the Taft-Hartley law as a congressman in 1946 but invoked it Monday on the grounds the strike imperils national security.

The fact-finders scheduled a meeting with "all principals in the dispute."

Union leaders involved in the strike reacted to the move with displeasure, skepticism that the strike really poses a threat to the nation and warning that even an 80-day cooling-off period under the law would fail to cool off the strikers.

Many of the owners of the 200-old ships that have been tied up in Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coast ports, welcomed the news and promised the President full cooperation.

Creation of the inquiry board was the first step under the Taft-Hartley law for the settlement of strikes considered national emergencies. The board was instructed to report its findings to the President Friday.

Kennedy can then instruct the attorney general to seek an injunction in a federal court. The judge must grant at least a temporary injunction for an 80-day cooling-off period.

Labor leaders did not expect that an injunction would be issued before July 5, and they expressed confidence it would not be a permanent injunction.

Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, one of the six striking unions, said an 80-day injunction could lead to a much worse shipping strike next fall, when the injunction expired.

"Sailors can't be pushed around," he said.

Ralph E. Casey, president of the American Merchant Marine Institute, which represents many ship owners said "our industry will, of course, give full cooperation."

In setting up the fact-finding board, Kennedy said a supply line

Gas Merger Proposal Under Study

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Public Service Commission Monday took under advisement the proposed merger of MidSouth Gas Co. into Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.

In another matter, two cities opposing a gas rate increase by Arkla urged the commission to cancel the hike which became effective April 1.

The commission turned down a request by a Midsouth stockholder who asked a delay in the merger hearing. W. R. Stephens, Little Rock financier and state representative, who also is president of Arkla and head of its board of directors, said the merger would benefit the public and the Midsouth stockholders.

He said Arkla has vast gas reserves to better serve the people of east Arkansas, now Midsouth territory.

Stephens added that Arkla should absorb some other independent companies in the state's interest.

City Atty. J. V. Spencer Jr. of El Dorado and George Holmes of Pine Bluff told the PSC that Arkla violated commission regulations in not properly filing notice of its rate increase. They said the company is collecting the rate increase illegally.

Arkla increased its minimum monthly rate from $1.10 to $1.30 and several other cities are protesting the increase. A PSC hearing is scheduled on that matter July 6.

Vote Seen as Prestige Test for Governor

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus puts his personal political prestige on the line today in a $80 million state construction bond issue election.

The election could be a harbinger of Faubus' candidacy for the U.S. Senate and for re-election to an unprecedented fifth term as governor.

Faubus wound up his campaign for the bonds he introduced in a statewide radio-television speech Monday night. Summing up for the opposition on a similar network was former Gov. Sid McMath, who sponsored Faubus in his political debut years ago.

Although voting was light in local boxes this morning it was considered very good in a special election. The County boxes 5 and 6 were far behind but voting in some of the larger city boxes were considered good to about half of what a general election usually pulls by the same hour.

McMath said the bond issue is a "cutting bid for the construction of a financial and political dynasty." Faubus said if the bond issue fails, taxes probably will have to be raised to meet state construction needs.

A total of 603,795 Arkansans are eligible to vote, but only about 210,000 are expected to go to the polls, which open at 8 a. m. and close at 6:30 p. m.

McMath, in his election eve speech, proposed an alternate building plan by which $14.5 million in surplus revenues would be used for immediate construction at state institutions.

State colleges and the University of Arkansas could submit itemized construction needs and these might be met by cutting unnecessary expenditures he said.

"We can then determine how much money, if any, we need to borrow," he said. Such a plan would save taxpayers millions of dollars, McMath added.

Faubus spoke 15 minutes after McMath finished, and lambasted the former governor for turning his back on the people in state institutions who need help.

McMath said many sincere citizens, including educational leaders, have been taken in as the "bridesmaids in this wedding between wealth and demagoguery."

He said Faubus would have direct control over the $80 million involved in the bond issue despite a construction board made up of state officials. "This is too much power to place in the governor's office," McMath said.

He added that the same forces who espoused defeated school-closing constitutional Amendment 52 and the unconstitutional omnibus expenditures act are now trying to slide a wasteful bond debt past Arkansas taxpayers.

Faubus has said that Little Rock integrationists, who fought him during the Central High School crisis in 1957 are behind the bond opposition and want to defeat the bonds to hurt the governor's prestige.

He warned that if the bonds are beaten, the strongest integration leaders in Arkansas will be placed "in position of influence."

Faubus promised again Monday night that taxes will not be raised to pay for the bonds, neither will school or welfare funds be tapped, he said. "If the bond issue fails, I predict that before two years are out, or sooner, there punk. Instead of diamonds and furs, she'd get lead slugs and a cement overcoat. And One Way wouldn't cross me. He never had it so good as he's gettin' it now."

The informer shrugged his shoulders and decided not to press his luck. He had done his duty and all that remained was to watch from the sidelines. Maybe Murgatroid was right. Belinda would be nuts to give up everything even for a king-sized punk.

The informer conceded that Murgatroid was powerful enough to protect what one might consider to be his property, even if he wasn't smart enough to realize at the moment that he was in danger of losing it.

Being an informer is a thankless job, therefore why should anyone stick his neck out?

Nevertheless, the inevitable happened and Belinda and One Way eloped. They even used Murgatroid's bullet-proof limousine to carry out their plan.

They fled to a plantation in the South Seas and lived happily by raising juicy pineapples instead of the explosive kind.

"They were nuts," said Murgatroid.

"No," said the informer.

"What were they?"

The informer quoted his psychiatrist: "Belinda's defection was a mixture of ideals and body chemistry," he said. "A person may adopt a temporary mercenary viewpoint to gain wealth and security, but eventually he'll surrender to his longings. Barbarian mercenaries in the Roman Army often forsook plunder to desert and rejoin their tribes in order to fight Rome."

"My longings are to commit homicide," said Murgatroid. And he did.

to Hawaii had been cut by the strike and that shipments of military cargoes had been delayed.

The President, invoking the law with reluctance, said the maritime strike had proved again the need for more flexible procedures to handle a national strike.

Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, whose report on the strike preceded the President's order, felt a clear distaste for the use of the Taft-Hartley law. As general counsel to the United Steelworkers Union in 1959, Goldberg had waged a long fight against President Eisenhower's use of the law in trying to end a steel strike.

In appointing the fact-finding board, Kennedy relied heavily on Goldberg's counsel and named the same three men the labor secretary had appointed last week as a citizens panel to seek a solution.

They are David L. Cole of Paterson, N.J., a leading labor arbitrator and former director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service; Samuel I. Rosenman, former New York State Supreme Court justice, and James J. Healy, professor of industrial relations at Harvard University's Graduate School of Business Administration.

In another development, the ship owners filed unfair labor practice charges against most of the unions with the National Labor Relations Board. They charged "bad faith" in the unions' demand they be permitted to bargain for crews of American-owned foreign flag vessels.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said a 203 count indictment, returned by a federal grand jury in New Orleans, grew out of illegal calls to or from these 10 cities:

New Orleans and Baton Rouge, La.; New York, City, Chicago, Los Angeles, Las Vegas, Atlantic City, Miami, Biloxi Miss. and Newport, Ky.

The indictment charged that the defendants, described unofficially as including some of the biggest names in horse-race lay-off gambling operations, paid telephone will be a demand for the legislature to enact new taxes to meet the construction needs."

It was a fitting end to the bitter campaign that has aligned many of the state's organizations influential citizens on one side or the other.

Faubus has mustered the support of college presidents, the powerful Farm Bureau board, and all state offices. Opponents include the Arkansas Education Association, which has widespread influence among public school teachers; former Govs. McMath and Ben Laney; a majority of the state's newspapers, and the state Republican Party.

The campaign is a story in itself and it effects apparently will go on after the election. The Army Monday ordered an investigation to determine whether the adjutant general of Arkansas and his aide mis-used the government franking privilege during the campaign.

The Army responded to a complaint by Rep. J. H. Cottrell Jr. of Pulaski County, who alleged that Adjutant Gen. Sherman Clinger and Clinger's assistant Col. John B. Morris, ordered national guardsmen to vote for the bond issue.

The Army said it had no control over Clinger and Morris because they are not on active federal service, but it said their letters, mailed free, merit investigation. The investigation will be conducted under the supervision of Gen. Herbert B. Powell, commanding general of the Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va.

Faubus declined to predict victory Monday, but he did say that if the people were properly informed, the bonds should pass by 4 to 1. Joshua K. Shepherd, an opposition leader, has predicted victory for the anti-bond forces.

McMath touched on almost every anti-bond argument in his 30-minute speech. He said Faubus claims the state cannot set a ceiling on the interest rates to be charged by the money lenders. Yet, McMath said, during his administration, highway bonds were issued with an interest ceiling of 3.2 per cent. Faubus replied to this by saying McMath had sponsored a bond program "almost identical to this one."

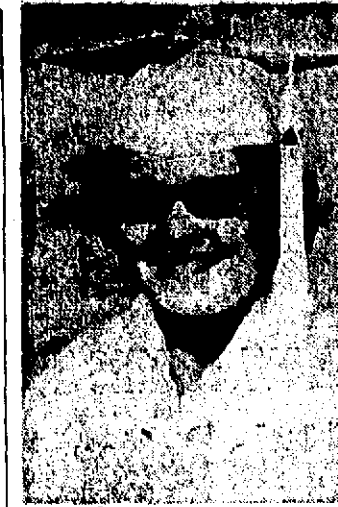

McMath said his bond issue was callable, and the bonds were called in, saving the taxpayers millions of dollars, he said. He said the present bond would cost the taxpayer millions because no interest ceiling was set.

Faubus replied, saying his bond are callable, and would be sold to the lowest bidder.

McMath said added horse race gambling revenue and tightening of use tax exemptions will provide only $1 million a year to pay off the bonds, and at least $3.5 million a year will be needed. An additional $3.5 million will be needed, he said, to operate the new buildings, and he asked where that money was coming from.

He said operating funds have been diverted from the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock for "pet political projects" and the center is operating at only 55 per cent of capacity. He questioned the wisdom of going into debt to build new buildings, then not having the money to run them.

Faubus lashed his critics and said, "All of this hullabaloo will Faubus said that, regardless of the outcome, he is proud of his "present standing" and his effort on behalf of the bonds.

So it's up to the voters. They must decide whether they believe Faubus when he says the bonds are a safe way of providing needed construction without more taxes or a drain on state funds, or whether they believe the opposition which says the bonds are wasteful, provide opportunity for graft, and will surely result in higher taxes or chopped school or welfare funds.

The Little Rock Ministerial Alliance voted unanimously Monday to oppose the bonds because they were tied to gambling revenues and the ministers are opposed to supporting state institutions "with funds realized from a source which we consider morally reprehensible."

Greater the Kindred, Less the Kindness

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKIN

Dear Helen: I am the second oldest brother in a family of eight boys and three girls. There are always ups and downs in a family this size but this particular "down" has got me down. My youngest brother is about to be married.

Everybody but I have received an invitation to the wedding. I think the world of this boy. My wife and I raised him with our daughter, who is about the same age. I feel some of the older brothers and sisters may have alienated him.

Our father died many years ago. Mother, a cripple and bed-ridden, lived with us. Finally, we had to put her in a nursing-home. The others thought this hard-hearted but after all, they didn't have the care of her. Evidently my kid brother took their side but it hurts to have him turn against me. —F.C.

Dear F.C.: There are always carpers in every family. If your sisters and brothers felt so strongly about your mother going to a home, why didn't they take her into theirs? See your brother and clear the air with good, honest, man-to-man talk.

Dear Helen: I am a war bride whose husband still carries on a war—with me. He gives me and our daughter everything, including his pay checks but—what a temper. He'll leave home happy as a lark and come back like a bull on the rampage, hitting whoever happens to be in his path—usually me. I'm black and blue, mentally and physically.

My folks, who live abroad, say come home and divorce him. Our child doesn't speak my native language. If she and I do go home it will be difficult for her. My husband tells me he loves me but he's got a curious way of showing it. After 10 years, he's distant as a stranger to our daughter—says he doesn't believe in being affectionate with children. Being from a distant country, it's hard for me to know what to do, stand my husband's ill-temper and beatings, or divorce. —Desperate

Dear Desperate: Ill - temper should never be tolerated. Life is hard enough without nerve-wracking scenes. Find the moral courage to tell your husband that anyone who indulges in bad temper is either mentally or physically sick, and will, in the end, wreck himself. Insist that he have a physical check-up. If he won't listen to reason, leave before he destroys you as well as himself.

Dear Helen: I recently renewed a friendship with a boy who has asked me to a dance. I like him and he me. Our friends will see the obvious when we come to the dance together. Other dances are coming up. If I still like this boy, I will want to go only with him. What happens if another boy asks me first? I will be 16 day before the next dance. Going with my "Mr. Special" would be extra special. What are your thoughts on this problem? —N.

Dear N.: Stick to the old rule: first come, first served. The more popular you are, the greater your success with "Mr. Special."

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful letters available. Write for "Firm Friends."

Travelers Nudged by Mobile

By VERNON BUTLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

They played them close to the vest in the latest round of Southern Association baseball activity and in the process the Birmingham Barons were almost squeezed out of first place.

One-run decisions were the theme as Mobile nudged Little Rock 2-1, Nashville literally walked past Macon 5-4 and Shreveport put the squeeze on Birmingham 3-2 Monday night. Atlanta and the second-place Chattanooga Lookouts were rained out and will try to play a double-header tonight.

With the score tied 1-1 in the eighth at Birmingham, Shreveport got runners on second and third via two singles and an error, and Manager Les Peden elected to squeeze in a run. He got a bonus run when Baron relief pitcher Jerry Lock fielded the bunt and made a wide throw to the plate.

It turned out that the second run was the vital one, because Birmingham rallied for one in the ninth off Dan Pfister.

Shreveport's victory over Birmingham left idle Chattanooga only a half-game and six percentage points away from first place. Chuck Daniel hurled a one-hit, scoreless game for Little Rock after the first inning, but a two-run single by Steve Jankowski in the first stood up for Mobile and right-hander Chuck Hickman, who posted his third straight victory for a 5-4 record. He has beaten Little Rock for his last two triumphs.

Nat'l Treats New Teams a Little Better

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The National League today adopted a "liberalized" plan with a sliding scale to provide major league talent for its newest members - the New York Mets and the Houston Colts.

Although the bulk of the plan is similar to that of the American League, the National League made available more players from which the newcomers can choose, including premium picks of $125,000 per player.

New York and Houston will pay $75,000 each for most of their players, but they also will have a choice of making $50,000 purchases, and each club will wind up with four $125,000 premium players.

In stocking Los Angeles and Washington, each American League club made available 15 players from which the new teams chose seven at a flat price of $75,000 a player. Each team spent $2.1 million.

The National League will make available 17 players from each established team, with each new club spending a minimum of $1.7 million to a maximum of $2.1 million.

Under the plan, each club will make available after the World Series 15 players from their roster as of Aug. 31, 1961. Seven of these must be taken from the active list and the other eight from each team's major league roster of 40.

The new clubs must take a total of 32 players at $75,000 a player with the established teams each losing four. New York and Houston then will have a choice of one player from each club at a price of $50,000.

Finally, each established club must then make available two premium players and from this list the newcomers must alternately select four $125,000 players.

Each new team will end up with four premium players and each established team will lose only one. Under the entire plan, the newcomers will have to pick 20 players but can go as high as 28 by exercising the right of selecting eight $50,000 players.

Warren Giles, president of the National League, said he believed the plan was far more liberal than that adopted by the American League.

"We discussed several plans," said Giles. "Both the new teams and the old teams were cooperative in the exchange of their views. The plan was unanimously adopted by all 10 clubs."

Fishing Around Arkansas Lakes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Here is a fishing forecast from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission: Lake Manumelle: Water clear and normal. Bass fair on artificial bait, fishing early and late. Crappie fair to good on live minnows. Bream good on crickets and red worms.

Lake Bull Shoals: Water clear and slowly falling. Fishing poor. Lake Ouachita: Water conditions good. Black bass fair on artificial and live bait. Crappie fair on live bait. Bream good on crickets and red worms.

Lake Hamilton: Water clear and high. Black bass fair on artificial bait. Crappie fair on live bait. Bream good on crickets and red worms.

Lake Conway: Water clear and normal. Bream good on crickets and worms. Bass and crappie fair on live bait.

Lake Norfork: Water clear. Bass fair on artificial bait. Crappie fair on willow limb line.

Lake Catherine: Water clear and normal. Bass fair on artificial bait. Bream fair on crickets and worms.

Archery Contest at Lake Ouachita

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—About 1,000 bowmen and bowwomen open the 16th annual National Field Archery Association tournament at Lake Ouachita near here today.

The meet will run through Friday. It is the first time it has been held in Arkansas, and it provides the largest number of persons ever to take part in a single athletic event in the state.

There are two divisions—free style and instinctive. A free style archer uses a bow sight and other aids. An instinctive archer shoots without mechanisms.

Jim Mackey of Bradford, Pa., is the defending free style men's champion and Cleo Roberson of Samara, Mich., is the women's titlist. Dr. Fred Simmons of Houston, Tex., and Fay Sconyers of Modesto, Calif., are defending instinctive titlists.

Ford Captures No. 13, Yanks One Game Out

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southpaw Whitey Ford won his 13th and became the first pitcher to beat every club in the American League as the New York Yankees outclubbed the Los Angeles Angels 8-6 Monday night. It was the only game scheduled in the AL and moved the Yankees within one game of first place Detroit.

In the National, the Philadelphia Phillies beat San Francisco, 1-0, behind the eight-hit pitching of Jim Owens and Dallas Green, and Milwaukee defeated St. Louis, 9-6 in the only game scheduled.

A three-run homer by Bill Skowron with two out in the ninth gave the Yankees their only lead against the Angels and beat reliever Jim Donohue (1-2) in a battle of home runs at cozy Wrigley Field.

Albie Pearson, Steve Bilko and ex-Yankee Ken Hunt homered off Ford, giving the Angels 1-0, 3-1, 5-3 and 6-5 leads. But the Yankees blasted back against starter Ken McBride on home runs by Mickey Mantle, his 23rd, and pinch-hitter Johnny Blanchard and a two-run single by Yogi Berra. Skowron's winning shot, following walks to Roger Maris and Mantle, came off right-hander Art Fowler. It was the Yankees' 101st home run, top total in both leagues.

Ford (13-2), gave up six hits and walked four, but fanned seven in eight innings, upping his AL-leading strikeout total to 100. Lefty Luis Arroyo mopped up 1-23 in the ninth.

Owens, who quit the Phils' spring camp in a huff when he figured he was being overlooked by Manager Gene Mauch, gave up four hits, walked two and struck out four in his first start for the Phils. He went six innings, then admitted he "ran out of gas."

The Phils managed just four hits off loser Jack Sanford (3-5) and Stu Miller, scoring in the fourth on a triple by Don Demeter and a single by Charlie Smith.

Joe Adcock rapped a two-run homer, capping a six-run third inning for the Braves, and then singled home the deciding run in the fifth. Larry Jackson (3-5) was the loser while Lew Burdette (7-5) won his third in a row, with relief help from Don McMahon when the Cards broke loose for four runs on six consecutive hits in the ninth.

Wimbledon Play Remains Wide Open

By JOHN GALE

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—The frustrating collapse of Wimbledon opening day program under a chilling canopy of cloud and rain left the 75th tennis championships as wide open as ever today—and postponed for 24 hours the center court test of Chuck McKinley, America's No. 1 hope.

Six of the eight men's seeds won their opening assignments between showers. Neale Fraser of Australia, showed all his old power in disposing of American Rudy Hernandez in straight sets. Hernandez, from Modesto, Calif., went down, 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 with Fraser showing his peak form and no signs of trouble from his suspect left knee.

McKinley, of St. Ann, Mo., and seeded No. 8, meets Italy's Sergei Tacchini today.

In the other top match, Rod (the Rocket) Laver outgunned the Soviet Union's Tomas Lesjko 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

The other four seeds to enter the second round without serious difficulty were Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli, Australian champion Roy Emerson, Spain's Manuel Santana and Chile's veteran campaigner Luis Ayala.

The deluge that washed out the opening session followed the hottest and steamiest two days of the tournament has had for more than a year. With weekend temperatures in the 80s, the 20,000 crowd which poured into the grounds spent most of the day huddled beneath the grandstands or crowding the restaurants and bars.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

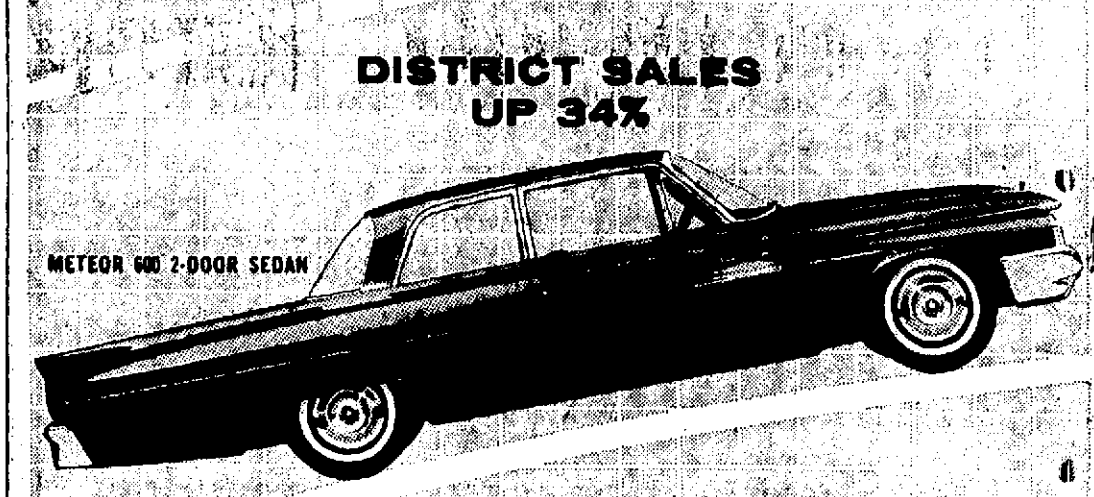

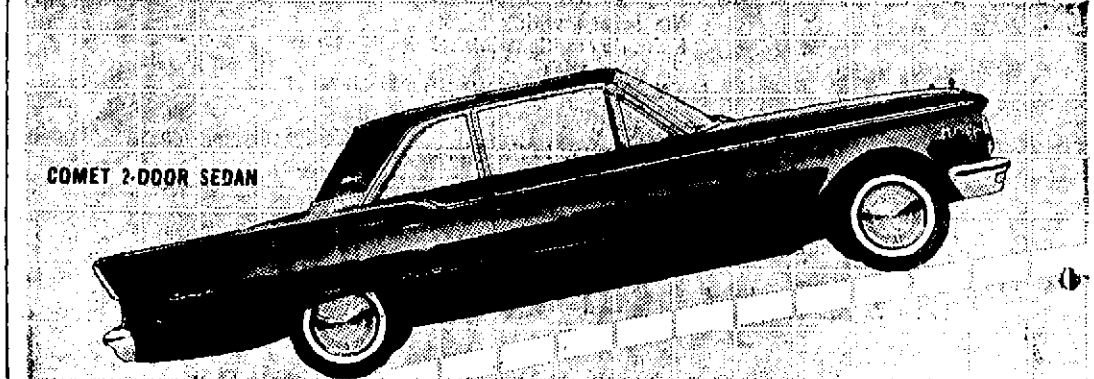

By John Alden Knight

The schedule of Solunar periods as printed below, has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major periods are shown in bold face type. These begin at the time shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The minor periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Some Stars Won't Make Russian Trip

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The refusal of seven eligibles to make the trip for Olympic-style track and field meets against the Soviet Union, West Germany, England and Poland next month could cost the United States at least one victory in Moscow, AAU officials conceded today.

"It's disappointing not to be able to send our strongest team abroad," said Pinky Sober, chief of the track and field committee. "Actually, the team will not suffer much except in the hammer throw."

The first and second place finishers in the national championships last weekend all were offered spots in the team.

But Ron Morris, the pole vault winner; Dallas Long and Parry O'Brien, 1-2 in the shotput; Harold Connolly and Al Hall, 1-2 in the hammer throw, and Al Oerter and Rink Babka, 2-3 in the discus throw, all refused to make the trip.

Most of them complained that they couldn't take time off from their jobs unless they had some means of being reimbursed. Morris and O'Brien offered to go only to the Moscow meet. Connolly didn't like the way the last met in Moscow was run.

The Soviet's Vasily Rudenkov won the Olympic hammer throw with a 220-1/2 loss. Neither Tom Pagoni nor Bob Backus, the two hammer throwers who will make the trip, can match that.

"We were aware in advance that most of these fellows couldn't go," said Sober. "But on the other hand their absence opens the door for some of our promising youngsters to acquire the international experience that makes champions. All in all, it's a strong team."
